

Exercise: Finding out the missing premise, using Venn diagram.

- 1) There are novels that are worth reading. Hence, most books are worth reading.
- 2) Few scientists are philosophers because most philosophers are mathematicians.
- 3) Almost all neurotics are not criminals. The reason is that the vast majority of neurotics are not parasites.
- 4) A number of conservationists are protesters. It follows that a great number of protesters are not hunters.
- 5) Inasmuch as computers can think. Consequently, computers are not dull.