Question 1

- A agreed to sell her dog, Casper, to B, and agreed that A would bring B the dog on Sunday 28 March, 2021. However, A did not show up.
- B then asked A about the dog. A told B that, sadly, the dog got lost in the night of Saturday 27 March 2021, even though A had kept the dog safely in her home before she went to bed.
- Can B demand for a specific performance from A?

Question 2

- C ordered a bouquet from a Flower Delivery Shop for her loved one as a Valentine present. The bouquet was to be delivered on Valentine's Day.
- However, on Valentine's Day, the bouquet did not arrive. The shop called the next day that it would deliver the flowers on February 16.
- Does C have to accept the flowers?
- If C needed to buy a bouquet from another shop on Valentine's Day and pay extra money, can C demand compensation from the Flower Delivery Shop?
