

1. Beauty is a significant word that cannot be describe through writing or words, it is something that hold values that will not be exchange by any form of money. Different people view beauty differently, some might view beauty as cash or any form that they were used to, therefore some might not interpret beauty as an art, but another form of value.
2. A painting could also be describe in two ways as a language or reality. In the drawing of cartoons above, its represent and convey meaningful message in which could be depicted in either drawing or language.
3. Yes, since people and technology improved as time pass. Different technique of art evolved through generation and generation. The picture is considered to be one of the greatest master piece since it show uniqueness of not having picture of human. The art has a hidden beauty which may not be discovered by people with close minded.