Modern Art

1. The yearning, or the inner urge, creates a new value to human spirit. Spiritual value finding form of materialization to find matter. Matter is get chosen by spirits. That act leading to the white fertilizing ray and this leading to evolution and elevation. People are blinded because they can't see through spirits because their eyes covered by the black hands. Many different forms can be at the same time. The necessity creates the form. The greater the strivings toward the spiritual are the richer number the forms become.
2. The triangle is just like a scale for drawing. On the left side is refer to the reality of the picture and on the right is refer to each picture itself meaning. The top is for is more like the difficulty of how to understand the pictures
3. For the question is the picture "No.5, 1948" a good art? It's depend on how each person see things, people are watching picture from different view and many different thoughts. For me, this picture is quite different from other, there is no subject matter in this or may be the whole picture is the subject matter. I would say that this picture is a good art because it shows the feeling and emotion and you can looking at it for a while because all the details are different and show different emotion.
