

19) Thailand decided to reduce net carbon emission to zero through a combination of cuts to existing emission right because Thailand try to recognised by leading scientists as the country where can truly get emissions down sufficiently to stave off the worst effects of human induced climate change

16) there are 2 main policies

1. Adaptation policies ; efforts to modify natural / human system to minimize harm from climate change impacts.

2. Mitigation policies ; using strategies to reduce emission / increase the planet's natural capacity to absorb greenhouse gases.

2) I agree with the statement because a uniformly mixed fund pollutants is focus on controlling total amount of emission that minimize the cost of control