

ESSAY Laos and Vietnam trip 8th-14th

DAY1

The first day of the trip we flew from thailand to Sakonnakorn and then drove all the way to Laos border and have visited the Savan-SENO special economic zone. And guess speaker also tell us all about how to invest in laos and how the FDI in laos work. Also the area we visited was divided into 5 zones for the investor. Moreover, we went to the night market and making a lot of video blog that we have to present, also we have eaten so much street food and it was really good after that we headed to the hotel which was super nice.

Day2

Essay Days 2rd

Today we have been waking so early because we have to travel all the way from our hotel we stayed in Lao last night to Vietnam and when we have passed the border Laos-Vietnam we took the bus, and the guide told us many things about where we have driven through and Vietnamese is really nice and have a similar sign as Thai people which is smiles from their face with make me super happy about it, also Vietnam was colonized by French, and then American as well after ward, moreover we have been riding on the old route to get to the Dong Ha city which is parallel to the new route for the transportation way, we also went to the bride which they separate between north and south of the country, also visited the Vinh Moc Tunnel and Demilitarized Zone. this tunnel has 3 steps of depth, and really complex inside there during the war vietnamese usually take refuse in there.

Day3

Today we have visited the CP corporation in Vietnam, we have watched how the CP system work in Vietnam and also Vietnam cp has the factory cp seafood which is the biggest and newest one in Southeast Asia and the production function can produce many sea foods in order to export to many countries and the business is keep growing until nowadays. Basically in the process of production in Vietnam there have benefit of the minimum wage and fresh seafood so Thailand tend to have more of processed food. However, We have walked in the factory to see the production line which mostly here in hue they produce only shrimp in this factory and there is a different kind of processing process to get the shrimp product to export to different kind of field, and in the evening we headed to the Hue sightseeing which one of the famous places in Hue.

Day4

We drove from Hue city to Danang City and today the professor gave us money to buy something that you think its would represent vietnam, today we didn't really do that much, we went to the local market and we decided to buy dry shrimp, hot sauce, coffee drip, and the conical hat which are the things that we think its can represent vietnam somehow, and also compared thai and vietnamese price of the product that kind of similar.

Day 5

Today we went to the temple which is called CHUA LINH UNG- BAI BUT, this temple is very famous in Danang and has highly populated, also this can be coast sightseeing for vietnamese, and in the evening we were visiting SCG company in Vietnam and the guest speaker who from thailand, he really told us all about how to invest in Vietnam and really want us invest in vietnam sincerely, one thing thank interested me the most is that Vietnam use more cash to do business and investment but in thailand we used future money a lot more which also known as credit card so that make the economics growth stabilization more compared to thailand, moreover in the central region in Vietnam typically like thai product very much so its can tell some way that more opportunity for thai people to go invest in vietnam. Later that day we headed to HOI AN city which we mostly spend the night at night market place, I really enjoyed the time there so much because the food was great and I also watch the local vietnamese bingo which made my day so appreciated.

Day 6

Today we went to the amusement park which also known as BA NA hills, this theme is the largest one in Vietnam, but today is the day that we have to wake so early compared to other day due to the fact that many tourism there, after we walked in to ba na hill I did not expected that to be good place that much, I rode the cable car all the way from ground to the uphill, besides the ba na hill also has the longest cable car in southeast asia which took us around 30 mins, and the atmosphere there is really great and joyful, there are many things to play and the stage show was super good, moreover i really love the bridge which is well known for ba na hill, i feel surreal when I was walking through it. And that makes me has to come back here again.

Day 7

Eventually, when it comes to the last day we were in Vietnam, we woke up pretty late due to teacher said meet at 11.00 which mean that we have a lot of time than the other day, we went to the museum of the vietnamese monk in the centre of Vietnam, and headed to the rock factory for the last souvenir which made me kind of sad that i have to leave Vietnam, and after all we were going to the airport and checked in and back to the place where i belong.
