

1) From the UNDP (2019) study on Tolerance but not inclusion, what is your viewpoint on this issue? Discuss your view by including the forecasting impact on the economic sector and what policies government should implement to solve any challenges.

In my point of view, I totally agree with the research that talks about people's attitude toward LGBT people. Although Thai people tend to be positive about LGBT people, the discrimination still exists due to several reasons. Some only accept LGBT people who are not their family members while some living in the rural area still lack of understanding. Moreover, LGBT-supported policy is still not available much in Thailand. Finally, true acceptance of LGBT people is still hard to be found in Thailand.

Speaking of the forecasting impact on the economic sector in my opinion, I believe that LGBT people are as skillful and ordinary as people who directly define themselves as just men or women. I believe that sexual orientation should not be matter in the labor market in order to allow every skillful person to work, receive income, and increase GDP of the country at the end.

Some policies that should be implemented are policies that support human equality and wage equality. Moreover, some policies that discourage discriminations should be implemented as well. Lastly, welfare and healthcare policy should be implemented as well.
