COURSE OUTLINE

TU 110 INTEGRATED HUMANITIES

Semester 2/2011 (January 9 – May 20, 2012)

Course Description:

This is a survey course on human history and Western humanities; a study of Western thoughts, ideologies, arts, and their influences on the modern world. The course will focus on the crucial intellectual and artistic movements which have had a revolutionary and shaping influence on Western civilization and the world at large. In the process of establishing a firm background in mankind's aesthetic, intellectual, and cultural expressions, the student's personal growth will be fostered.

Course Objective:

This course aims to awake within the students an informed and appreciative awareness of the major issues and assumptions that helped shape the modern world. Students will be encouraged to develop their ability to think critically, to read and interpret sophisticated texts, and to write at university level about the material they study. In addition, students will learn how to apply this knowledge to their own lives to help them adapt and cope in an increasingly complicated and interconnected world.

Course Administration

Class Etiquette

- Talking during class is distracting to others. Occasional whispers are fine, but any talking between students that can be heard at the front of the room is not acceptable.
- Do not bring food into the classroom.
- Cell phones must be silenced and out of sight during class.
- Laptop computers are to be out of sight unless their use is expressly permitted.
- Class begins and ends on time. Arriving late, leaving early, and coming and going during class are all inappropriate.

Class Participation (10%)

This is the easiest portion of your grade to earn, assuming you are present in class to earn it. Occasionally, students will be asked to do something, such as work in small groups, participate in class discussion, upload a file to moodle, or take a pop-quiz. Class participation activities are usually scored pass/fail, but some may be graded. There are usually about ten class participation activities during a semester, so you might think of each class participation activity score as about one percent of your final grade in the class.

The first class participation activity is to turn in the class survey and have your picture taken. The second class participation activity is to enroll in the class moodle page and update your student profile with a photograph of yourself.

Moodle

The class moodle page is used to make class announcements, to distribute class materials, to share answers from student questions, and to report grades. Messages sent to the class are required reading.

Enrollment Key: 2660

After you have enrolled in the class moodle page, please update your profile with a recognizable picture of yourself.

Completing these simple tasks counts as a class participation activity. To earn full credit for this activity, please complete them before the second class.

Unless otherwise instructed, any assignments that you turn in by moodle must be in PDF format. If you are on a computer with Adobe Acrobat installed, you can convert your file to PDF format by simply printing the file with "Adobe PDF" as your selected printer. Otherwise, you can convert files to PDF format for free at this website: <http://docupub.com/pdfconvert/>

Essays (10%)

Students will write one academic style, research based, persuasive essay during the semester. Of paramount importance is that students do original work, but students will also be expected to research their topics thoroughly, to adhere to the basic principles of essay writing, and to write in a logically sound, academic manner. Further details will be provided in the essay assignment handout.

Plagiarism

Plagiarism on the essay will result in a score of zero. Your first reading assignment (other than this course outline) is the plagiarism tutorial which can be found in the class download page as well as here: <http://tutorials.sjlibrary.org/tutorial/plagiarism/tutorial/introduction.htm?flash=no>

Group Projects (30%)

Students will form themselves into groups and make short, documentary movies on a humanities related subject. The completed movies will be watched in class at the end of the semester. Groups will also upload their movies to YouTube so that they may be enjoyed by a larger audience. Further details will be provided in the group project assignment handout.

These are relatively large groups and the project provides significant challenges not only in mastering the subject matter and technology, but in working together as a team. The group projects are a significant portion of your grade, so it will behoove you to plan well, to adapt and cooperate, and most importantly, to get started as soon as possible.

Of course, plagiarism is also forbidden on the group project assignment.

Midterm and Final Exams (20% and 30%, respectively)

Students must be present for two exams: the midterm and the final. The midterm exam will consist of material from the first half of the semester. The final exam will consist mostly of material from the second half of the semester, but does have an element of comprehensiveness. The exams are closed book. For both exams, in order to earn a superior grade, students must demonstrate mastery of the course subject matter and also demonstrate that they have integrated this knowledge into their worldview, i.e. students are expected to have contemplated the issues raised in class discussions and to have developed informed opinions about them.

Reading Materials

There is no textbook for this class. Reading and study materials will be provided in the form of lecture notes, class handouts, and class messages (via moodle). You should read the lecture notes before class to familiarize yourself with the material and vocabulary of each class. The lecture notes are not a standalone resource; you must pay attention to the class lectures to understand the context of the provided notes. Please ask questions about anything you do not understand. You are also encouraged to answer basic questions yourself with the use of Wikipedia and other reputable resources.
