From the UNDP (2019) study on Tolerance but not inclusion, what is your viewpoint on this issue? Discuss your view by including the forecasting impact on the economic sector and what policies government should implement to solve any challenges.

In my opinion, I think the discrimination problems in Thailand are better at the present, but it's not totally disposed. Many people accept gender diversity while some groups of people still not accept it. There will lead to some potential impact on the economic sector in the sense that lower amount of labor employ in workplace (higher unemployment). Therefore, it will be worse-off in economic productivity for the country. In order to solve the issue, the government should publish the policy which equalise all gender in all aspects such as rights.
