Groundhog Day

1. Phil was going to the village of Punxsutawney to make his report at the time of Groundhog day. But when he and his crew finish doing the job and trying to go back to Pittsburg. A snowstorm struck them which force them to stay overnight at Punxsutawney. And since then every day he wake up it's the same day over and over again.
2. It is not a religious movie. I think it is a comedy movie with brilliant idea and a good thought within. When Phil discovered that the time is looped over and over again. He starts to do all the funny stuff that he ever wanted. In simply word he lives his life to the fullest without regret. This movie ending do tell me that even just one day if we can make the best out of it with our best effort in everything. It can change our life entirely. We just need to love like we never going to get hurt and live a life like it ends tomorrow.
3. He just like a child that found a new toy to play with, time loop. He play it hard. Every he can ever think of he do it with taking advantage of his time loop. With this he fear not the consequence of his action. He keep doing things he want. He learns from mistake and improves every time he fails.
4. Phil's journey is related because his currently situation provides him opportunity to explore and do which ever he desire which mean indefinite freedom of choice for phil. But because of the time loop which is a hostile universe and an unexplainable phenomenon that happen to phil make him later sad and wanted to end this event by suicide which happen to be futile.
5. I do everything I want. Try to be whomever I can : bad guy , hero , thief , murderer, etc. Just all kind of stuffs since it have zero consequences, so who care right? :D
6. I believe that the true meaning of life is to be happy. We people seek happiness in different forms. Someone may like something different than the other. Such as different in career path or hobby as an example. We wish to do things that give us happiness with the people we are happy to be with. It's all about happiness that we seek and wish for.
