

The lives of lesbian, gay, bisexual, and transgender (LGBT) people are really limited by prejudice and discrimination. Due to erroneous assumptions and attitudes about LGBT people, they are unable to reach their full potential as workers, students, or members of society. As a result, there is inequality in many facets of daily life and the workplace. The estimate indicates that the economy might be badly impacted by the discrimination against LGBT persons. The consequent effect on the economy's sector is a reflection of the drop in economic output.

The actions that the government should take to address any problems are Support of Human Rights and Freedom, Nondiscrimination Policy, Civil Rights Restoration, health care policy, workplace policy, and etc.